

FDBA Principles

Character Development

The Fort Dodge Baseball Association provides an environment of competitive baseball that gives an opportunity for players to develop a respect for discipline, to see the merits of persistence and commitment, to understand the value of teamwork and develop the self-discipline, self-esteem and pride in being part of an outstanding program.

Commitment to Teaching and Learning

The Fort Dodge Baseball Association provides an uncompromising environment for the teaching and learning of the game of baseball that engages players to be advanced students of the game in knowledge and application.

Achievement

The Fort Dodge Baseball Association provides a program to enhance the player's personal opportunity for the achievement of playing for their respective High School baseball teams.

Community

The Fort Dodge Baseball Association operates on the premise of a self-help/volunteerism attitude with player and parent groups setting the tone by example, providing inspiration and leadership, which earns the expanded community's trust to be supportive to the organization.

Leadership

The Fort Dodge Baseball Association, will, within its process, develop player character, which encompasses responsibility, accountability, sportsmanship, and cooperation toward the achievement of common goals through hard work, effort, and self-discipline.
